

MIS202 MARKETING Grading Standard

Summary of Assessment Components

Components	Marks	Individual/Team
Attendance + participation + peer evaluation	20	Individual
Project 1: Research Paper Presentation	30	Team
Project 2: Final Marketing Plan (Written Report and Presentation)	50	Team
	Total 100

1.Attendance + Class Participation + Peer Evaluation (20 marks)

As this course is based on both individual study and interactive learning, your attendance and participation in class discussions are critical and will be assessed throughout the course.

Class participation is an important component, as it develops analytical thinking, “thinking on one's feet,” and the sharing of alternative perspectives. Appropriate responses to questions during class discussions will contribute to your participation marks. Questions you raise after each presentation will also contribute to your participation marks.

There should be NO FREE RIDER for team projects. Therefore, peer evaluation will be conducted for your team members (you will evaluate their performance confidentially). Please note that peer evaluation only applies to those involved in the group project.

2.Research Paper Presentation (20 marks)

Each team (two students) is expected to find a paper on marketing from top marketing journals (Journal of Consumer Research, Journal of Marketing Research, Journal of Marketing, Marketing Science) and present it to classmates. This paper must use at least two research methods (e.g., survey, experiment, second-hand data, interview, et al.). The first slide of your presentation should include the title and your name. There is no restriction on the maximum number of slides your team can use. Given the time constraints, it is advisable for you to focus on the points you consider most important.

You are expected to hand in your presentation slide to the teaching assistant (TA) on 20th, April. The presentation will be on 21st, April. Each one is given 15 minutes to present the paper to classmates. The details are listed below:

- 1.Introduction of the paper: background, main hypotheses, research methods, and contributions;

2. Reflection of the paper: Pros and cons of the paper; future direction of the research;

3. Class discussion: Answer the questions proposed by the professor and classmates.

The following rubric shows the various aspects of the content of the paper presentation to be assessed:

Criterion	Above Expectation	Meets Expectation	Below Expectation
Understand the key points and research methods of the paper	Demonstrate a comprehensive understanding of the paper.	Demonstrate an adequate understanding of the paper.	No attempt to analyze the paper, and cannot summarize the paper in a proper way.
Demonstrate critical thinking	Present and discuss the paper in a coherent and logical way.	Present and discuss the paper in an acceptable way. But still have space to improve.	Lack of logical flow in presentation and discussion and inability to answer the questions properly.

3. Marketing Plan For Individual Project (Written Report and Presentation) (50 marks)

Each team (two students) needs to develop a viable marketing plan for commerce in Shenzhen/China. The softcopy should be sent to the TA. You need to do a presentation on your marketing plan. Your presentation should cover the most important aspects of your marketing plan report. The professor will decide on the presentation schedule. The materials for all students need to be submitted at the same time to ensure no one is given an unfair advantage by the presentation schedule. No more changes are to be made after the submission of the materials. As the files are to be shared with your tutorial class group, please use Microsoft Office formats (.docx, .pptx) or .pdf. To standardize, please follow the format below:

E.g., For John Li
John Li_Marketing_Plan_Report.docx
John Li_Marketing_Plan_Presentation.pptx

The cover page of your written report and the first slide of the presentation should also include the title and your name.

Your written report of the marketing plan should be a maximum of 15 pages (Times New Roman, font size 12, and 1 spacing). This stipulated maximum length excludes the cover page, executive summary, table of contents, references, and appendices. The written report needs to be formatted appropriately (i.e., in a professional business writing style that is easy for readers to follow). You can refer to Appendix 1 in most versions of Principles of Marketing (i.e., your main marketing textbook) for a sample marketing plan. However, you don't have to follow the structure of any sample marketing plan strictly; use your own discretion.

Please discuss with your professor what you feel should or should not be included in the marketing report. In your deliberations, you should address issues (not limited to these) such as:

- A more comprehensive evaluation of the marketing environment (as compared to the proposal presentation),
- The objectives/goals to accomplish,
- The marketing recommendations of how to achieve the stated objectives/goals (i.e., customer-driven marketing strategy, including the marketing mix) and
- A simple profit-and-loss statement and/or budget for the first three years of operations (an example will be provided).

You need to do an oral presentation based on your written report. The professor will decide on the presentation schedule. You will be given 20 minutes for the oral presentation. However, there is no limit on the number of slides you can use. Given the time constraints, it is advisable for you to address the aspects you consider most important. Note that your presentation must avoid areas relating to religion, race, nationality, politics, or the university's policies. If these issues need to be discussed, there are other platforms outside this subject that you can consider.

The presentation slides should be prepared professionally. Each student is expected to dress professionally and/or in a manner appropriate for representing the focal organization (e.g., staff uniform or attire reflective of the proposed brand's image). You should have a backup plan in case of any technical faults.

Most, if not all, of the supporting information that you will require should be available from observations and existing secondary resources (e.g., articles from periodicals, annual reports, press releases, analysts' reports, product catalogs, company brochures, and company websites). Please ensure that the appropriate citations and references are used in your written report and presentation. You are not expected to contact the chosen organization for first-hand information.

Your written report will account for 50 percent of the 50 marks allocated for the marketing plan assignment. Your presentation will account for 50 percent of the 50 marks allocated for the marketing plan assignment. Please refer to pg. 2 for the assessment rubric for the marketing plan assignment. At the end of the presentation, the professor will pose questions to you in regard to your marketing plan. Your performance in the Questions and Answers (Q&A) section will affect the overall grade of your marketing plan, as your professor will be expecting you to clarify your key assertions in both your written report and presentation. As part of the learning process, the other students will also be given the opportunity to raise questions.

For grading standards, please refer to the table shown in part 3 (marketing proposal presentation).

Understand the underlying implications of the marketing environment for the organization.	Demonstrate a comprehensive understanding of the different aspects of the marketing environment and how these aspects can affect the marketing efforts of the organization.	Demonstrate an adequate understanding of the marketing environment. But may not have the complete picture of how the marketing environment can impact the marketing efforts of the organization.	No attempt to analyze the market environment beyond repeating facts/trends from various resources. Do not show any understanding of the link between the marketing environment and the marketing efforts of the organization.
Understand the various possible solutions for this type of situation.	Identify a comprehensive set of feasible options that demonstrates creativity. Understand clearly the pros and cons of each and every option.	Identify a small handful of alternatives only and/or only superficially consider the alternatives that are not chosen.	Identify only one option and neglect to think of any other possibilities. Unable to defend chosen option given other alternatives.
Demonstrate logical decision-making	Present and discuss the entire decision-making process coherently and logically. Make a strong link between analysis and decisions. Whenever necessary, use appropriate marketing frameworks and concepts.	Miss several steps in the decision-making process but can still explain the rationale for making a decision. Make a relatively adequate link between analysis and decisions. Use appropriate marketing frameworks and concepts at times.	Steps in decision-making lack any logical flow. Lack any link between analysis and decisions. Use marketing frameworks and concepts inappropriately or neglect to do so.

Important Notes

- 1) The requirements of the assignments are subject to any changes in the circumstances. If necessary, changes to the assignments may need to be made during the semester. If that is the case, students will be informed as soon as possible.
- 2) All university rules and regulations need to be complied with, and any guidance given here will be superseded.
- 3) Students are to make and keep backup copies of all their submissions. In the unlikely event of a loss, backup copies will be required.
- 4) When your professor grades your assignments, consideration will be given to all relevant circumstances. For example, late submissions, submissions not in compliance with the specifications, and presentations exceeding the specified time duration.
